WRITTEN EXAM	R1,R2,R3,R4,R5,R6	50%
PRACTICAL JOBS: IN GROUPS OR INDIVIDUAL	R1,R2,R3,R4,R5,R6	50%
OBSERVATIONS: In order to pass the subject, it is necessary to demonstrate an advanced level of linguistic skill in all oral and written productions. For this reason, each spelling error will be penalized in assignments and exams with 0.50 points. Three missing tildes will equal a misspelling. The assessment will include a long essay question on final exams and a reading book related to the subject. The exam must demonstrate knowledge, skills and/or attitudes studied in the subject. In the works, the students must demonstrate the readings carried out, their understanding of them and the correct application of what they have learned (the contents of the subject) to other real situations indicated by the teacher. Likewise, the work will be based on the search (which will have to be demonstrated) of current documents related to the contents that have to be worked on in each case. At the teacher's discretion, an objective test will have to be done on the content of the group work, to demonstrate the participation and learning achieved by each student in the group. In this way, the qualification can be individualized. In this subject, attitudes are worked on, especially in topics 4, 5, and 6, in which we study stereotypes, prejudices and construction of personal and social identities. This in terms of contents. In addition, personal attitudes will be put into practice through voluntary work, class participation, and other voluntary activities that will be offered to students at different moments of the subject.
Criteria for the awarding of mention of Distinction: 1 for every 30 students or fraction of 30 students.
